3rd Email conversation exchanged between Dan Johnson and The Rutherford Institute. The email exchange was sent in a PDF Printout to my family while I was in the county jail pending Federal trial for the child porn charge I was set up on. It may have some good information which you can use to prove my innocence and exonerate me, you know prove that I am not-guilty of the indictment.

Nisha:

My contact information is below. The mother and Grandparents live together, since Brian wouldn't return to his house after the initial raid. Their contact info is:

Ken and Stella Forinash (grandparents)

Roberta Hill (mother)

I have also attached the most updated timeline, a daily log kept by the family to chronicle all the events in this case, and the sample press release we put together, if necessary.

Mr. Johnson,

I just spoke with Nisha and John. They expressed to me that for now, we are not going to actively look to replace his court appointed attorney. We certainly understand your apprehension about his court appointed counsel properly handling the matter, but at this point we haven't been able to adequately assess the case to determine whether or not it is something that we will get directly involved in. I have already spoken with Mr. Placke, his attorney, and he will provide us with additional information once some of the initial discovery is received, at which point we will assess the potential for our involvement in the case. Additionally, until we can fully evaluate the case information, we would ask that you refrain from releasing any PR that suggests Rutherford Institute involvement in the matter.

We appreciate your enthusiasm about moving forward with this case, but we need to fully run this through our review process before we commit to take it on. We appreciate your patience, and we will get back to you once we hear back again from Mr. Placke attorney.

Thanks,

Jesse Baker

Understood. We may be releasing PR, without mentioning you, shortly, depending on the hearing today. I am somewhat disappointed in the now seemingly sudden pullback on this. Whereas I had been hoping to rely on your advice, with how fast this case is progressing, it seems we will be handling this one on our own for now.

Please keep me updated as you look into the facts of the case.

Dan, we're on the road today, trying to get away from the noreaster. There is no pull back, but we need to get home before we can make important decisions on this case. That will not happen before tomorrow. Please do not do anything precipitous until we talk further.

Nisha, John:

I will wait for as long as we can for you to review the case. The family is chomping at the bit to get publicity out for this. Please let me know your decision/progress as soon as possible.

Dan, at this point, we have offered our assistance to Brian's court-appointed attorney and are waiting to hear back from him on where things stand. You're welcome to mention that we have offered our assistance in the case in any PR you do, but beyond that, I don't have an update yet and I don't want to discourage the family from getting the word out. We'll be in touch as soon as we know more on the legal front.

All the best,

Nisha

Nisha:

Gotcha. The lawyer has been rather awful getting in touch with anyone, so I'm not surprised he hasn't gotten back with you. The family received a report from him earlier that Brian was Okay, then asked the prison chaplain to check on his condition, and the chaplain said he was being held in Maximum Security. His lawyer neglected to mention it, a crucial part of information.

We are trying to get him out of the way by any means possible. I'll keep you posted.
